

CleanTechnica is the #1 site in the US for cleantech news & commentary. We focus on solar energy, wind energy, electric cars, and other clean technologies.

Washington D.C. has a RPS target of 100 percent of the District's electricity generation being sourced from clean sources by 2032, the most aggressive 100 percent clean energy target of ...

Learn about the benefits of renewable energy in Washington, D.C. and how you can choose clean energy from wind and solar--no solar panels required.

Explore each directive to learn how the Commission is helping to achieve the District's climate goals. The Commission has several cases working to expand renewable energy generation in and around ...

The District of Columbia is on track to meet its ambitious goal of sourcing 100% of its electricity from renewable energy by 2032, with significant progress in solar energy installations and supportive ...

Clean Energy DC is the District of Columbia's energy and climate action plan. It explains how the District will use forward-looking energy policies, while also encouraging innovation, efficiency, and resiliency.

CMEI drives U.S. leadership in the research, development, validation, and effective utilization of energy technologies and processes, ensuring an integrated energy system that is ...

AES is committed to creating greener, smarter and innovative energy solutions. Together, we can accelerate the future of clean, renewable energy.

Thanks to D.C.'s CleanEnergy DC Omnibus Amendment Act of 2018, residents have access to powerful programs that reduce energy bills while supporting a greener future.

Washington, D.C.'s electricity mix includes 3% Solar, 3% Solar (BTM) and 1% Gas. Low-carbon generation reached a record high in 2025.

Web: <https://www.black-hat.co.za>